

MAY PROBE SALE U. S. IS PREPARED MERCHANT SHIPS FOR COAL STRIKE

SENATOR FLETCHER DEMANDS
AN INVESTIGATION

FORD FAILED TO BID ON SHIPS ON FIRST OFFER

The Circumstances Surrounding Sale of Ships to Ford Also Calls for a Rigid Investigation to Clear the Atmosphere.

Washington.—A senatorial investigation into the shipping board's policy of scrapping merchant ships in general and its sale of 199 vessels as junk to Henry Ford in particular will be demanded by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher. The ranking Democrat on the commerce committee, which has jurisdiction over shipping legislation, said the matter will be given a general airing when his committee takes up the merchant marine problem in December.

He made it plain that he had no objection to Ford getting government ships for operation. But he is convinced that it is illegal to junk the ships, notwithstanding Attorney General Sargent's ruling to the contrary. The circumstances surrounding the sale to Ford also call for rigid inquiry to clear the atmosphere of certain rather mysterious and unexplained happenings, in the opinion of Senator Fletcher.

When bids for the ships were first opened it was found that Ford had failed to make an offer.

Admiral Palmer's recommendation that the highest bidder be accepted was rejected to give Ford another chance.

In the second competition Ford was awarded the 199 ships.

Then it was discovered that a bid higher than Ford's had been received by the board, but it was not transmitted to Admiral Palmer until too late for him to consider it.

LARGE ANTHRACITE SURPLUS
ON HAND

INDUSTRY SHOULD SETTLE
ITS OWN LABOR DISPUTES

The Increasing Use of Coal Substitutes Will Tend to Alleviate the Seriousness of Strike Action—Coolidge to Keep "Hands Off."

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge is remaining adamant in his determination to withhold federal intervention in the impending hard coal crisis, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said after a conference with the executive.

Following a discussion of the situation, Hoover said: "It is the president's view that industry should settle its own labor relations and he is therefore hopeful that the anthracite industry will find its own solution in the present wage controversy."

Although the secretary of commerce would not go beyond this statement, there were indications that the administration is not unduly concerned over the prospect of a strike on September 1.

It has been pointed out repeatedly by federal agencies in Washington and more lately by John Hays Hammond, former chairman of the United States coal commission, that the country could stand a suspension of labor in the coal fields lasting as long as three or four months without being in danger of a hard coal shortage of any consequence.

A large surplus of anthracite now on hand, coupled with rapidly increasing employment of substitutes, tends to alleviate the possible seriousness of strike action.

Also he felt that the underlying human problem, which has entered into strikes in the past, when the miners were fighting for sufficient money to enable them to live, do not prevail in this year's negotiations.

BRYAN BEQUEATHS LARGE AMOUNT TO BOYS' SCHOOL

Miami, Fla.—William Jennings Bryan's will was filed for probate here. The first thought of the Commissioner in his will was given to his widow, Mrs. Mary Baird Bryan, to whom he bequeathed one-third of all his property and a life interest in Marymont, the Bryan estate at Coconut Grove. One-fourth of the remainder of the Bryan estate goes to each of three children, Mrs. Ruth Bryan William Jennings Bryan, Jr., and Grace Bryan Hargreaves. The last fourth of the remainder, less $50,000, which is calculated as the value of the Bryan home in Fairview, Nebraska, is to go to the establishment of an academy for boys where religious and material education can be combined. The Bryan home at Fairview is given to Bryan's sister, Mrs. Frances Bryan Baird. No estimate of the value of the estate was given, but friends believe it will reach $500,000.

From Jacksonville he went to Atlanta and became editor of the Journal. For ten years, from 1905 to 1915, he was identified with the general manager-ship of the Hearst newspapers in Atlanta and New York.

Colonel Graves was generally classed along with Henry Grady as one of the most brilliant orators of the south. He was the author of numerous books.

Proposed Change in Auto Tax

Highway funds for the construction of $20,000,000 worth of new roads in California are provided for in the first of the proposed initiative measures which has been drawn up for presentation to the voters in 1926. Half of the fund, or $10,000,000, is to be taken out of the state's surpluses at once, and the remaining $10,000,000 is to be raised over a 5-year period by means of a weight tax, according to the plan outlined in the initiative measure which is being sponsored by Assemblyman Robert B. McPherson of Vallejo, chairman of the ways and means committee of the lower house at the last legislative session.

Construction of the Shaver lake tunnel and conduit line, to connect Huntington lake reservoir in the high Sierras with Shaver lake, will commence this winter, it was announced by George C. Ward, vice-president of the Southern California Edison company. This phase of the company's Big Creek-San Joaquin river project will involve an expenditure of $37,000,000 between now and 1930. Work previously authorized and now in progress will add $5,000,000 to that figure. Engineers estimate that completion of the Shaver lake work will provide electric energy for a population of 6,500,000 in the ten counties of southern and central California, double the present population. The tunnel and conduit line will be five and a third miles. The dam at Shaver lake will impound 139,000 acre feet of water and provide an additional generating capacity of 180,000 horsepower.

It is planned then to continue the shaft to 300 feet, with other levels at 200 and 300 feet. Erection of a 150-ton mill is contemplated when a large tonnage of ore is blocked out by this work, after which it is planned to resume sinking to 500 feet.

Under Home Economics Mr. Bohnett and Mr. Coupland both made some remarks which brought laughter from the members. Speaking of germs, Mr. Bohnett suggested that laws might be passed to prevent a man from kissing his wife or some other man's wife. Mr. Coupland speaking of the frequent use of endearing terms between an and wife, especially in public was much overdone.

S. N. Hedegard as temporary chairman called the Chamber of Commerce meeting to order Monday evening. It was voted that the president, C. H. Whitman, select two others to help him in selecting the young lady. Secretary Farley and Ralston Alison were appointed.

It has been decided by the Consolidated committee to dress 12 young ladies in Spanish costumes.

Dr. Merrill of the health committee reported that a number of boys have been swimming in the pond at the gravel pit which is very unhealthy in the face of the presence of so much typhoid germs. The practice should be stopped by the parents. He also reported that an expert will soon make a survey of the district and give report to the Consolidated Sewerage Committee on the proposed sewage system for this district. H. C. Smith reported for the special school lighting committee giving a detailed report of both the electrolier and flood light systems and costs of installation and maintenance. The committee was authorized to continue a further survey of the matter and report at the next meeting. E. R. Kennedy stated that officers of local bus line would soon make a visit here with a view of rerouting a part of their buses thru Campbell.

H. C. Smith made a report of the findings of the telephone rate committee and after some discussion it was considered that the present system was the most popular.

Secretary Farley reported for the special folder advertising committee and after a short discussion and suggestions the committee was authorized to issue such a leaflet as the funds would warrant.

The overcrowded conditions of San Quentin prison are to be relieved in the near future by construction of a new women's ward and completion of the west wing of the new cell building. Plans prepared some time ago for the proposed new women's ward call for a 3-story structure to cost $142,000, with 100 individual cells, and various appurtenances regarded as essential in modern prisons. Completion of the west wing of the new cell building will cost $168,000 and will afford quarters for 500 additional men.

Peter Oehler, ranch owner of Glen Ellen, was electrocuted when an iron pipe he was holding came in contact with high power electric wires. Mrs. Oehler met her death while trying to rescue her husband. The Oehler children, a boy, 20, and a girl, 17, gazed on horror stricken at the double tragedy. In endeavoring to rescue the couple, J. H. Murray, state fire marshal, and T. A. Meglin, a neighbor, suffered severe burns.

So rapidly is the export trade increasing that California fruit and vegetable canneries will be forced to double their facilities and output within the next two years, according to Edward Chambers, Chicago, vice-president of the Santa Fe railroad, who has just completed a visit through the large agricultural districts of the state. The 1925 crops of fruits and vegetables will bring into the state the biggest flow of money in its history, the rail chief believes, and the outlook for abundant crops and good market conditions will bring a flood of prospective farmers and homeseekers to California the remaining half of this year.

A crisis in the affairs of the agitation for an all-year-round highway along the North Fork of the Feather river was brought about by the recent announcement of the chairman of the state highway commission that that body had decided to assume the burden of maintenance of the highway between Quincy and Oroville by Buck's ranch, in compliance with the provisions of a law passed by the recent legislative session.

Plans to raise $100,000,000 through subscriptions for "creating the most magnificent and comprehensive park system in Los Angeles county of any place in the world," were laid before the Hollywood chamber of commerce by a representative of California State Parks association. The plan, if found feasible, will be taken up throughout the county with other chambers of commerce.

Everybody Happy

Gen. Hugh Drum said in a visit to Washington:

"I have been reading a number of war books lately, some by German generals, some by English and French ones, and these books have proved to me that every battle of the World war was a victory—a victory for both sides and no general had a defeat or a slip-up from the beginning to the end."

General Drum laughed. "To err is human," he concluded, "and to lie about it more so."

To be something else, to be somewhere else, to be somebody else has warped our mannerisms and tried to re-mould our personalities against Nature that is constantly pulling against us but often apparently failing to conquer.

MORE MUSIC, LESS STRIFE

Music does more than soothe the savage breast. People who sing together don't often fight among themselves. We have never heard of an orchestra practise ending in a free-for-all, nor of a band rehearsal ending in a battle royal though there may have been such happenings. The point is,—music is appealing to the heart and palliating to the fervor of everyday strife. Our community has civic assets in its musical people, its singers, teacher and leaders. Every movement that tends to develop the musical talent in the community ought to be given all the encouragement that is possible. It is too easy to let others perform the music and ourselves do the listening. The danger is that we may all become listeners, with too few doers.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

According to an exhaustive study of the National Safety Council engineers, fatal street accidents to children are much fewer in cities and towns with ample playgrounds than in cities and towns not so well supplied with these safety zones. Taking Cleveland, Ohio, for an example, it is shown that less than 30% of the victims are children, and this is remarkable because child fatalities usually outnumber the adult. Cleveland has 72 supervised playgrounds. But safety knows no distinctions in populations. Smaller communities, having less rigid traffic rules, are in even greater danger, and therefore ought to take greater precaution against needless tragedies caused by street play.

CHRISTMAS IN AUGUST

No, we did not get the wrong headline. We mean every word of it. Last Christmas and for many Christmases before people have talked about love, unselfishness and other common virtues. Then somebody usually urges to practice the Christmas spirit during ALL the year, which is a very commendable thing to do. So we just want to remind ourselves as well as our readers that the month of August is just about as good as any other time to keep up the spirit that makes Christmas.

ECONOMY AND BUSINESS

A prominent authority says there is an imperative need for a "more general, thorough-going public education in economics," and denies that personal economy on the part of the people is "hurting business." According to this authority, personal economy has increased savings, and thus stored up and conserved purchasing power for future needs. And to mix alliteration with emphasis, we say it sounds sound.

OTHER LAWS

Motoring has many hazards to the square mile. Besides the laws of speed, parking, signals and rights-of-way, there are laws of gravitation, friction, concussion, centrifugal forces, vision and judgment of distances to cope with and obey. More power to state legislatures in prescribing conditions for licensed motor car operators.

When you were in school or college, did you root for your own football team or the visiting team? Silly question, isn't it! Then why are you not just as anxious to boost your own town, —to see IT win? Dollars spent here mean a lot more to you and your family and community than whether that football team cleaned up on the other team, even if it was more exciting. The games are forgotten but a lessening of your allegiance to your home town leaves an indelible impression upon your community adverse to its prosperity.

The world pays high tribute to talent, while it starves genius; still talent could not exist without genius having first created its program.

Call Me "Honey"

Of all the pet names derived from things to eat, such as "Dumpling," "Peach," and the like, no other is so generally applied and so much appreciated as "Honey." As a classic word, connoting anything delightfully sweet, "honey" stands supreme. If you had your choice of pet names you would probably say, "Call me Honey."

Of course the reason that we like honey so well figuratively, is because it's so good literally. As a food, honey has the unqualified support of the highest dietetic authority. In the matter of flavor, honey tastes—well, it tastes like honey; there's nothing higher for comparison.

Naturally, after reading thus far, your mouth will be watering for some honey, and so you are invited to buy a jar of our Royal Sierra Brand. It's pure, beautifully clear, and tastes as honey should. The jar, 40c.

CODE OF ETHICS IS ADOPTED BY EDITORS

Washington D. C.—The Southern Newspaper Publishers association at a meeting held recently, in Asheville, N. C. adopted a code of ethics based on the assumption that a newspaper's first duty is to print the news, honestly and fairly, unbiased by any other consideration.

Among the points made in the code were these: "Diversity of opinion exist, we may vigorously maintain our own position without denouncing others as dishonest and unfair."

"Decency should be the guiding star in the printing of news, editorials, advertising and all feature articles or illustrations."

"Is it fit to print and to be read by my own mother?" should be the test rather than "Will it sell more papers?"

"Consideration for the unfortunate and for guiltless victims of the faults of others."

"No story justifies needless damage to a good reputation nor wanton pain to an innocent."

"Respect and tolerance for those of different religions, races and circumstances of life."

"Honesty in all dealings, whether with readers, advertiser, employees or competitors."

"Truth first, last and always."

The younger generation seems to have changed the old song to read, "Be it ever so humble there's no place at home."

General deepening operations have been launched in the Ventura oil field as a result of deep sand discovery. The No. 5 Notten was completed at 5,400 feet with 2,000 barrels initial and 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The field's production rose 10,500 barrels daily in two weeks, due to three wells from 5,000-foot sand. Previous boring had been to depths of 1,800 to 3,500 feet.

A "train of all nations," its cargo made up of Mexican, German, French, Spanish, Norwegian and Swedish undesirables, and its every exit closed to egress with iron bars, left San Francisco on the first leg of its journey of deportation, via El Paso, where the natives of the southern republic were dropped off and escorted over the line. The remainder were taken to Ellis Island to ship for their respective native lands.

IS A PEACOCK ashamed of HIS LEGS?

If not, why, when he looks at his legs, does he always lower his tail? Medieval nature-fakers puzzled over this and other entertaining superstitions. Today we know better, and we are fast getting away from other popular superstitions, as, for instance, that there is something mysteriously "better" about "eastern" motor oils merely because they cost more and are made in the east.

Superstitions Pass—the Facts Prove Zerolene's Superiority

As a matter of fact, there is no better motor oil than Zerolene, which is produced right here on the Pacific Coast from selected western naphthenic base crude, refined by this Company's patented high-vacuum process, and submitted to 15 positive checks for quality.

Experienced Automobile Men Disregard Oil Superstition

Experienced automobile men pay no tribute to superstition—they gauge a lubricant not by price or where it comes from—but by car performance and low maintenance costs. Zerolene is not only successfully lubricating more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made;—it is used and recommended by automobile agencies and big users of such celebrated makes as Cadillac, Chrysler, Dodge, Lincoln, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, who know that true motor oil economy is not a matter of price per quart, but what the lubricant does.

Less Carbon—More Power

Zerolene will improve the gasoline mileage, reduce carbon removal operations and lengthen the life of your car. Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Get the Facts!

A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene motor oil has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

if it does cost less

Regulate the flame for greater efficiency

PROPER adjustment of the burners on your range, or other appliances, will result in material economies.

For best efficiency the tip of the flame on your gas range should just touch the bottom of the utensil, while in the Gas Water Heater the flame should touch the bottom ring of the coil.

Your Gas flame should consist of sharp and distinct blue cones with purple edges. Yellow or white flames are wasteful because they indicate improper combustion and consequent loss of heat.

This can be remedied by turning the air shutter on the mixing tube, until the blue flame is established.

Your Gas Burners should light easily, turn off quietly and should not pop. If there is a popping noise, too much air is being admitted and the air shutters should be moved to reduce the opening.

A service man will be sent to adjust burners at your request.

Excellent Reason Why William Was Working

Mayor Snively of Duluth was talking about a Duluth husband who, after an apparent reform period, had been divorced again.

"He hadn't really reformed," said Mr. Snively. "He had only gone broke. Compulsory reform, you know. His case was like Bill Heaton's."

"Bill Heaton was a notoriously lazy man. His wife, on the other hand, was a hard worker. Whenever the parson called, he would find Mrs. Heaton bent over the washtub, while Bill sat beside the stove with pipe and pencil and cross-word puzzle."

"But one day the parson found Bill's armchair vacant."

"Gracious!" he said. "Where's Bill? Don't tell me he's working!"

"Yes, he is," said Mrs. Heaton, as she wiped the hot suds from her arms.

"Gracious! It seems incredible. And what's he doing?"

"Six months."

If So He Choose

In pre-Civil war days, Gen. Stonewall Jackson was a reverent worshiper at the English church in Williamsburg, Va., which is still a popular church in that historic town. A communicant of the church related to me this story, which is generally credited with being true. The old darky sexton who served the church in the days of Jackson long survived the distinguished Confederate general, who is known in history as a stalwart Christian man. One day, a few years ago, the darky was asked if he thought Jackson was in heaven, and he replied:

"I doan' know, seh; I doan' know. I does know, seh, dat if Marsa Jackson wanted to go to heben, he's dar, seh!"—George Marble, writing from Norfolk, Va., to the Fort Scott Tribune.

The Modern Father

Bishop Collins Denny said at a Richmond banquet:

"The modern father is at last learning his lesson. He is learning that he must be cruel to be kind. There's no other way to save our modern youth from destruction."

"A Richmond man's son turned up the other day after a riotous course of living in Monte Carlo, Montmartre and Broadway."

"Well, dad," he said, "are you going to kill the fatted calf?"

"No," said the Richmond man. "No, I'll let you live, but I'll find you a job that will sweat that soft, nasty corpulence off you at the rate of about four pounds a day."

Canned Salmon Industry

Three-fourths of the world's pack of canned salmon in 1924 was produced in the Pacific states and Alaska, according to the Department of Commerce. Thirty-two canneries in Washington, 130 in Alaska, 22 in Oregon and 2 in California had a combined output that exceeded 300,000,000 pounds or 6,253,377 cases of 48 one-pound cans, valued at $42,401,602.

Bird in Tight Place

Jack Baker of Cooper, Texas, discovered a sandpiper standing near the tideline at Galveston with its bill stuck in the sand. The bird did not move when he approached, for it had rashly placed its bill into the open jaw of a clam, and the clam had shut up like a trap. Baker had to kill the clam to relax its grip and release the bird.

One Process for All

An entire engine block from rough casting to even the studs and bearings is made by a single machine in England, weighing 300 tons and measuring 181 feet in length. The machine turns out a block every four minutes. It has 53 separate operations.

Maoris Resent Remarks of American Tourists

In view of the remarks said to have been made by members of a party of American tourists who recently visited Rotorua, certain of the Maoris have decided to refuse all forms of assistance in guidance and hospitality to Americans, says an Auckland dispatch in the Sydney Sun, in a recent issue.

This action is unique in the history of Rotorua Maoris, who have always welcomed visitors. It becomes of greater importance in view of the visit of the American fleet.

The Maoris are indignant at the references to their alleged begging habits.

"What hurts us most," said Guide Milly, "was the suggestion of the Americans that we should, as a people, be inclosed in a reservation or sort of yard. We might forgive much that the Americans have said, but we cannot forgive that. It has been decided by four chiefs, in korero (conference) that in future the Americans shall be left unattended. We will not ever again act as guides to Americans," they state.

Hot Weather Undress Barred by Officials

Shirt sleeves, it is whispered, have been rather conspicuous in some government offices during the hot spell, and one wonders how the Old Guard would have regarded such laxity, says the London Post, completing its observation thus: Lord Hammond, when undersecretary of the foreign office, had a notice exhibited: "Clerks are not to walk about the corridors in their shirt sleeves," and one day he actually pursued an offender until he caught him, and called a hall keeper to identify him.

Alfred Montgomery tried subtler methods. When a secretary came into his room one broiling day without a coat, Montgomery blandly observed: "If it should be convenient to you, Mr. —, to dispense with your trousers, pray do not let any consideration for the board prevent your doing so."

The Worm Turns

Time's revenge, or loquacity at the barber shop. In the old days the barber did the talking, and would keep up a running fire something like: "No change in the weather, sir—this political campaign is—well, I lost the money—extraordinary murder—you need a hair tonic, sir—who do you think'll win the race?"—etc.

Now the tables are turned, and the patron monopolizes the conversation, something like this. "And it was just the dinkiest little frock, and so—and then there was another dance last Tuesday, and so—and it was going dirt cheap, and so—but he didn't turn up after all, and so—then she said you never saw such a profile, and I said—" etc.—London Humorist.

Arctic Observations

The naval observatory says that an aviator would know he was at the North pole when the height of the sun above the horizon was equal to its declination as given in the Nautical Almanac and remained so whenever observed. The declination of the sun is its distance from the celestial equator. Amundsen's discovery of the South pole was proved within 35 days by the arrival there of the British expedition under Captain Scott, who found a tent and papers left by Amundsen. In the case of the North pole, which is in the Arctic ocean, such tangible proof could not be expected.

Essay on English Speech

Sinclair Lewis says an American can get along very easily in Paris if he speaks nothing except English, because there are so many Americans doing all kinds of business there. It's the same over here, too. An American who speaks nothing except English can get along fairly well in New York or Boston.—Worcester Telegram.

Builder in Hard Luck

After having spent 14 months in building a new home entirely with his own hands, working nights and holidays, William Knapp of Valley Camp, Pa., saw it burn to the ground a few days before he planned to move in. The house was a three-story, eight-room frame building and was valued at $7,500. He carried no insurance.

$1,000 is offered for winners in the 5-gaited class and a similar amount for winners among the hunters and jumpers. The stock horse division will be featured by a stake of $1,000. Two stakes of $500 each are offered for the best single heavy harness horse and the best pair of heavy harness horses. The chamber of commerce is sponsoring a stake of $500 for the harness pony class.

T. E. Cochrane, secretary of Cotton Growers' association of Corcoran, in Kings county, estimates there are approximately 12,000 acres of cotton in the area tributary to Corcoran, and that the yield will be between 10,000 and 12,000 bales this season. One cotton gin has been enlarged and two new gins built for this year's crop. There is good prospect of a cotton seed oil mill being put up by local and outside capital.

A legacy of $100,000 has been left to Mrs. Laurence T. Kett, 46 El Camino Real, Berkeley, by her late uncle, Finley Barrell of Lake Forest, Ill., according to the terms of the will disposing of a $750,000 estate, which was filed at Waukegan, Ill. Laura S. Morton of Pasadena, another niece of Barrell, is to receive $25,000 from the estate.

With receipts of $2,018,517.08 to meet disbursements of $1,976,565.95, excluding a cash surplus of $509,580.76, the county of Merced's annual income exceeded its yearly expenses by $41,951.13, and its treasury now contains $551,521.89, according to the annual report of Smith E. Acker, auditor, submitted to the county board of trustees.

Sutherland brothers, hunters of the North Coast, killed a large panther at Usal, Mendocino county, on the William Thomas ranch. The panther had been killing young lambs. The panther, a male, was eight feet in length. This is the seventh panther the Sutherlands have killed.

The board of public works of Los Angeles awarded a contract to prepare complete plans for the new $4,500,000 city hall.

The Orpheum theater at Red Bluff, the largest show house in the city, was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Motor vehicle registrations in California during the first six months of 1925 totaled 1,341,939, a gain of 137,410 over the machines registered during the same period last year, according to a check completed by Will H. Marsh, chief of the state motor vehicle department.

Announcement has been made that the San Leandro National Bank will open September 1 with the following executive officials: President, W. J. Gannon; first vice-president, J. A. Dalziel; second vice-president, J. H. Beggin, and secretary-cashier, S. H. Martin.

S. F. Mints Jubilee Coins

San Francisco.—Robert J. Grant, director of the United States mint at Washington, D. C., is a San Francisco visitor on his annual inspection tour and announced that the souvenir coins of California's Diamond Jubilee will be run off in the San Francisco mint beginning August 15, and amount to $300,000.

Swampscott.—President Coolidge appointed has Captain Martin E. French, U. S. N., to be governor of the Virgin Islands.

Unbeatable

It is our belief that the acme of caution has been achieved by the man who consulted a book on the United States game laws before setting a mouse trap in his kitchen.—Life.

Gas wells are being developed in heretofore water wells on the ranches around Camarillo and Oxnard, Ventura county, according to reports being received from owners. On the Juan Camarillo ranch a gas spouter is throwing the water twenty feet into the air. A match touched to the spouting well has sent up a flame one hundred feet high. On another ranch, owned by John Linnett, the gas spouted twenty feet and was so strong in the neighborhood of the well that people had to stand on the side of the well from which the wind was blowing.

What's in a Name?

Supreme Court Justice Benedict in Brooklyn refused to approve a certificate of incorporation for the First Werchedneprowsker Progressive society, says the New York World.

"I am constrained to refuse approval of this certificate of incorporation on the ground that the name is un-American," Justice Benedict wrote. "I will not stamp with my approval any society to be organized which has the name of a foreign place, especially when there is nothing to indicate that the incorporators are natives of the place from which the word Werchedneprowsker is said to be derived."
